SAGEBRUSH LEAVES.

To Whom It May Concern: The committee having in charge the disposition of "Sagebrush Leaves," begs leave to announce that some of the books sent to the sub-committees in smaller towns have never been satisfactorily accounted for. It is here requested that all parties connected with the sub-committees in remote localities in the State and in San Francisco will make returns at once, as the committee are anxious to close up the business, and consider that ample time has elapsed for a remittance of all monies collected. State papers please copy.
By order of the Committee.

CLEM BERRY AND THE GHOST.—Old Clem Berry, a well known colored gentleman of this city, solemnly asserts that his present habitation is haunted. Each night the pale spirit of his former wife, wrapped in the cerements of the tomb, stalks across the room and warns Clem to flee from the wrath to come. On these occasions he falls upon his knees and calls upon heaven for protection. At his invocation the ghost, all broken up as it were, hastens back to the graveyard, leaving the poor darkey in a terrified state of mind.

HANK MONK'S SCHOOL DAYS.—Hank Monk was yesterday talking about his early educational facilities, and remarked:

"I was educated on the compulsory plan. My layout for grammar and arithmetic was cussed slim. One day I was ketched throwin' spitballs at the girls and the teacher shut me up in the fire-place and closed me in with the fire screen along with two other fellers who wouldn't study. Well, we thought it would be a danged good joke to climb up out of the chimney onto the roof and run off. We stuck our bare toes in the cracks of the chimney and climbed up. Pretty soon the top feller he sung out, 'Boys, I've struck daylight,' and give a whoop. Then he slipped somehow and the two fellers came down on the top'er me. They must'er weighed two or three tons and we fell sixteen feet, and fellin' plum through the fire screen tumbled into the gerogrophy class, where a boy was 'just boundin' Maine. It broke up the class and dang n-broke up me. My collar bone was smashed, and the other fellers had their ribs stove in. Next day one of em died, and he was the most promisin' boy in the skool. He could do fractions rite in his head just as easy as anything, and maul the daylight out of any multiplication table you ever saw. We all attended the funeral, and I was pall bearer with my new blue britches on. He was an awful good boy and got shut up in the chimney because I pertended he was throwin' the spitballs toe. He was too good for the world anyhow, and blamed if I wasn't glad to see him taken to a better land before he got time to git wicked. Yes, guess I will. Little whisky and gum."

CHESLEY'S NEW PLAY.

A ROARING SAND LOT DRAMA—THE RISE AND FALL OF DENIS KEARNEY TO BE PUT ON THE STAGE—SOME IMMENSE SCENIC EFFECTS AND STARTLING TABLEAU.

The announcement that Mr. Byrne had written a drama has caused several other parties in Carson to set about constructing plays. They argue, "If that fellow Byrne can write a drama why can't I?" Mr. George Chesley is now busily engaged on a tragedy in five acts, representing the rise and fall of Denis Kearney, the king of the sand lots. The plot is as follows: In the first act Kearney is a hard working, respectable drayman, earning $16 a day hauling goods for the Front street merchants. A speech is written for him by a newspaper reporter, which he delivers at a public meeting amid great applause and excitement, and is at once installed as the leader of the Workmen's party. In the next act he pays the bill of the Bohemian ($50), by cutting it down to a dollar and six bits, which the reporter grasps with avidity and agrees to furnish speeches to the end of time at these figures. In the next act he sells out to the Central Pacific Railroad for $400,000 and goes East on a free pass to talk against the employment of Chinese and assist Ben Butler to get defeated in Massachusetts. The tableau representing Kearney with a whole palace car to himself swilling down Cachat Blanc champagne, is sure to bring down the house. In the next act he takes possession of the Palace Hotel, inaugurates a form of government and gives every working-man and his family a suite of rooms, where meals are served four times a day. Free bars are located on each corridor. The leading scene in this act is where a grand ball is given in honor of Mr. Denis Kearney, and Crocker, Stanford, Frank Pixley, Flood, Fair, Mackey, Parrott and other leading lights are compelled to mix up with Charley De Young, Parson Killoch, Jack Bryant, Mark Boruck, Kearney and the sand lotters in the same quadrille. Denis Kearney is asked to waltz with Mrs. Lealand Stanford, but declines on the ground that she is too fat and clumsy. Here he is knocked down by Stanford, waltzed on by Frank Pixley, and a regular old fashioned hurdy gurdy house riot follows. The Kearnyites thrash out the aristocracy and blow up the hotel and burn the city. The closing tableau representing the city of San Francisco in flames will require $900 worth of red fire and ten of Edison's electric lights to give the proper effect. Kearney is assassinated by Charley De Young from a coupe and is given a monument by the Workmen. The play will be furnished early in July, and is already spoken for by four of the leading theaters. Col. Jackson of the Post, is the only authorized agent.

GREASE WOOD COMING TO THE FRONT.—It now turns out that the much despised grease wood which grows quite abundantly in Nevada can be utilized for commercial purposes. Professor Stillman, of the Chemical Department of the California State University, has discovered that grease wood exudes a valuable gum. At a recent meeting of the California Academy of Science, he read a paper on the result of a chemical analysis of the gum found on the Torreya Mexicana, commonly known from its odor as the creosote plant, or grease wood, sent from Arizona. The analysis proved the exudation on this plant, after the boring of it by a certain insect, to be essentially the same as that from which the stick lac, the gum lac and the shellac of India—and one of the great sources of India's wealth—is obtained. This creosote plant, called also grease wood, grows extensively in the lower part of Tulare valley, California, and on the Mohave desert, as well as in many of the valleys of Utah and Nevada. The uses of the gum are various, and extend from that of wax for the wild flax-thread used by the Indians, to solder used by the Mexicans, and the cure of rheumatism for any person. M. Watkins of this city states that it is the only sure cure on earth for rheumatism, as it cured him after trying everything else. The Appeal is inclined* to put but little faith in this, as what will knock the rheumatism out of one man will have little or no effect on another. Many a man will recollect, when he reads this, the warm and cheerful fire the grease wood brush makes when a man is traveling by stage in some of the valleys along side the Base Range at 3 o'clock in the morning. It burns fiercely and quickly and gives forth an intense heat. No plant that ever grew is worthless; all that is necessary is for some smart man to find out their real merits.

AN OLD OFFENDER CAUGHT.—Night before last Officers Duncan and Hawthorne raided an opium den in Chinatown and captured an old reprobate named Ah Ling, who is, and has for some years past, been furnishing about all the opium used in Chinatown. He was taken to jail with his opium, amounting to about $10 worth and the endless paraphernalia which goes with the pipe. He is considered the boss opium seller of Carson, and his den is frequented by young people of both sexes. The man has wealth and influence, and his friends say they will raise enough money to break the law. The officers who made the arrest say that in endeavoring to purify Chinatown they are hampered in the discharge of their duty by other officers of the law. If this is a fact, the matter should be enquired into by the proper authorities.

GRAND JURY.

The following men have been summoned as Grand Jurors and will meet at the District Court room on Monday next: C. C. Atherton, J. M. Benton, D. L. Bliss, Thomas Beer, P. Cavanaugh Jr., J. E. Cheney, N. J. Dunbar, J. E. Dealy, George F. Davis, P. B. Ellis, James Spurgeon, N. M. Jellerson, W. O. Broadhead, M. C. Gardner, A. Helm, W. O. H. Martin, D. G. Kitzmeyer, W. D. Keyser, John P. Mader, John Q. A. Moore, C. P. Mason, J. Tobriner, W. H. Corbett, M. D. Hatch.

THE CENSUS.—Mr. Henderson of St. Clair, Churchill County, was in the city yesterday. Mr. Henderson has been appointed by the United States Government to supervise the taking of the census of Nevada. This is the census provided by law to be taken every ten years. It will be taken all over the United States in June, beginning on the first Monday and lasting ten days. To make a complete enumeration of the inhabitants of the United States will cost several millions of dollars. Mr. Henderson is authorized to appoint one census taker to each precinct in the State and at least one for each 4,000 inhabitants. In a sparsely settled State like Nevada the labors are more arduous than they would be in Massachusetts or New York. In some of the precincts in the eastern part of the State there are but four or five ranches in each precinct and these are several miles apart. The work of enumerating the census will stop simultaneously all over the United States on June 26th, and persons who are born the day after will be left out of the count for ten years.

PLUMMER AS A PREACHER.—Plummer, the eloquentist, looks more like a consumptive circuit preacher than an entertainer of the public. He seems to have lived in an atmosphere of piety and circumspection, and his meek and lowly aspect indicates that he is absolutely saturated with the drippings of the sanctuary. One day when on a stage riding into Placerville he saved $1600 by his good acting. The coach was attacked by road agents and Plummer, like the rest, threw up his hands with the muzzle of a double-barreled shot-gun in his face, and as they were about to go through him he remarked, "Gentlemen I'm a meek and lowly follower of the Lord. I've got the pastoral charge of a small flock up in the mountains, and my salary's small. You're robbin from the true word when you lay your sacrilegious hands on my little purse and scrip." "He's one of the bible whangers," said the leader of the group, and Plummer's black valise was not molested.

THE MERRY MASKERS.—The Merry Maskers are about to have their pictures taken in a group with full costume, etc. The pictures will have an immense sale and will afford a fine companion piece for the group of Gen. Grant and the bonanza crowd after coming out of the Con. Virginia mine. Copyright secured.

At a performance given by the "Windsor Dramatic Circle" of San Francisco, on last Monday evening, Miss Rose Sheyer, a resident of Carson now visiting in San Francisco, made a decided hit and carried off the honors of the evening as "Charlotte Shae" in the play entitled A Petty Piece of Business.

MR. FRED H. PHELPS, formerly a resident of Carson, has disposed of his business in Tesacora and is temporarily stopping in this city. Mr. Phelps is just recovering from a severe illness, and hopes that the milder climate of Carson will completely restore his health.

NO CLASS.—Owing to the illness of Miss Lam, pre, the teacher of elocution, there will be no meeting of her classes to-day. Unless further notice is given, she will be here as usual on Monday.

Z. Swaringen will call at the APPEAL office immediately, where he will learn of important business connected with the Inter-Ocean Consolidated mine.

Bishop Whitaker will preach in St. Peters Episcopal Church on Sunday, morning and evening.

Irish poplins worth $1 at 50 cents per yard.

OLEOVICH BROTHERS.

THE ONE PRICE DRY GOODS STORE.—All the divorce suits started in Carson arise from the fact that husbands are driven nearly crazy by the extravagance of their wives. By trading at M. Cohn's these troubles can be happily avoided. He has now on hand a new supply of ladies' cloaks, childrens' woolen-goods and in fact everything that a woman wants in the shape of clothing. His is the original one price dry goods store and he defies competition.

FRAGRANT BREATH AND PEARLY

Teeth are easily obtained by cleansing your teeth daily with that justly popular dentifrice, SOZODONT. Composed of rare antiseptic herbs, it imparts whiteness to the teeth, a delicious aroma to the breath, and preserves intact, from youth to old age, the teeth. Acidity of the stomach will destroy the strongest teeth unless its effects are counteracted with SOZODONT, and this pure tooth-wash protects the dental surfaces by removing every impurity that adheres to them. Ask your druggist for SOZODONT.

NO OTHER REMEDY

Has so beneficial an action on the human system and none is so pleasant to take as SYRUP OF FIGS. It is better than oil, salts, pills or any liver remedy or purgative to cleanse the system, to purify the blood, to give tone to the stomach, to regulate the liver or to act on the bowels, acting gently yet thoroughly, without griping. CHILDREN CRY FOR IT, because it is pleasant to take, and grown people like it because they find it just the thing they need to keep their bowels open and livers in good order. For sale by all druggists, jan25

PROFESSOR LANGER'S MUSIC CLASS.—Prof. Langer, the well-known leader of Piper's Orchestra, has started a music class in Carson. He has already received a number of scholars from the best families in the city, and his thorough methods of instruction give the best of satisfaction. He gives vocal and instrumental instructions and teaches on the piano and violin. He will give lessons on Wednesday of each week. Orders can be left at the APPEAL office. 121-1m are not recommended as a remedy "for all the ills that flesh is heir to," but in affections of the Liver, and in all Bilious Complaints, Dyspepsia, and Sick Headache, or diseases of that character, they stand without a rival.

ACUE AND FEVER. No better cathartic can be used preparatory to, or after taking quinine. As a simple purgative they are unequaled.

BEWARE OF IMITATIONS. The genuine are never sugar-coated. Each box has a red wax seal on the lid with the impression, McLANE'S LIVER PILLS.

Each wrapper bears the signatures of C. McLANE and FLEMING BROS. Insist upon having the genuine Dr. C. McLANE'S LIVER PILLS, prepared by FLEMING BROS., Pittsburgh, Pa., the market being full of imitations of the name McLane, spelled differently but same pronunciation.
